

[illegible]

The manuscript page is a single leaf, heavily aged and damaged. It features a central drawing of a domed structure, possibly a tomb or a small building, with a pointed roof and a small spire. The drawing is surrounded by various handwritten notes, sketches, and decorative elements. The page is torn and discolored, with significant ink smudges and bleed-through from the reverse side. The text is written in a cursive script, likely from the 17th or 18th century. The page is oriented vertically, with the drawing at the top and the text below it. The overall appearance is that of a historical document, possibly a sketch or a page from a diary or a notebook.