This day personally appeared before me, Delilah Jordan, a Notary Public for the City and State aforesaid, whose commission expires on the 25th day of January, 1921, Alice S. Oliver who served in the Confederate Army during the Civil War; that she does not know his Company and Regiment; that she has endeavored to locate Confederate soldiers who served with her husband but has been unable to do so; that just before Lees surrender he was at home on furlough and was on his way back to the Army when the news came that Lee had surrendered; that this is the cause of his not being with his Command when the surrender took place; that this visit was to her before they were married.
