Deft. } In Chancery

The Commissioners in this cause this day made their report which is in these words to wit: "In obedience to an interlocutory decree 'Moore vs. Moore' pronounced at Oct. term 1848 by the County Court of Southampton, your commissioners proceeded on Thursday the 28th day of November 1848, after having examined the different tracts of land whereof James J Moore dec^d seized and possessed, and set apart and allotted to Margaret Moore the widow of said dec^d, as much for her dower for life, a part of the tract of land called and known as 'old South quay' bounded on the south by Black Water river, East by the lands of Eamus Jenkins, to north by that part of the lands of said dec^d called 'the old place tract' to the east corner of the field called 'straw' then along the fence which separates 'Texas' from the house field from thence bounded by the marsh to the east end of the long dam: thence along the lands of Seth D. Williams and the tract called the 'darden tract' to Black Water river, thence up said river to the corner of Eamus Jenkins' land, containing One hundred and twenty acres more or less. And on Saturday the 25th day of November we sold at public auction, on a credit of twelve months, except a sum sufficient to defray the expenses of the sale and costs of this suit, the remaining tracts of land (the time and place of sale having been advertised at the most public places in the County, thirty days previous thereto: first the 'Hornum tract' of 196 acres more or less, was put up when James Boyd dec^d became the last bidder for the sum of $196.00 The 'Darden tract' of 75 acres more or less when Wm D Moore became the last bidder for 162.00 Lastly the 'old place tract' of 200 acres more or less when Wm D Moore became the last bidder for 100.00

Amounting to $458.00
 We then deducted $12.35 Am: & costs fees & 5 p 00 commissions on $458.00 making 38.83
 leaving a balance of $445.65
