A license this day granted to J. S. and P. V. Evers and Jordan C. Johnson, on their application to sell to be drunk where sold, wine, malted spirits, malts liquors or any mixture of any of them, the said J. S. and P. V. Evers at their store known as Evers' old Store and the Jordan C. Johnson at his store known as Johnson's Store in this County, for the period expiring on the 30th day of April 1877, the Court being fully satisfied that the applicants are persons of sobriety and good character and that the place of business is suitable and convenient, and that the tax required by law has been paid to the proper officer.

At a Court of the Superior, held at the Court House, in the County of Adams, this 10th day of April, 1877, the Court being in session, the following case was called on for trial, to wit: Amos J. Jumper vs. State of Adams. The said Amos J. Jumper was indicted of felony, and this day came to the bar in Court, to answer to the indictment, and being charged arraigned pleaded not guilty to the indictment, and a panel of sixteen persons of the County, summoned by the Sheriff, examined by the Court free from all legal exceptions and qualified to serve as jurors according to law. Thereupon the accused peremptorily challenged four of the jurors and the remaining twelve, to wit: Allen Cotton, Lewis Edwards, John Scrabble, J. H. Drake, David Gray, J. S. Council, Th. J. Cobb, Paul Boardman, C. E. Henry, P. E. Darden, Wm. Johnson and Jerry Sperry, who being called, took and swore the oath of and upon the promise to speak and having heard the evidence were sent out of Court to Council of their verdict and after sometime, returned into Court, and not having agreed in their verdict, were committed to the Sheriff of this County, who is directed to keep them together without communicating with any other person, and thereupon, an oath was administered to D. J. Watkins, a deputy Sheriff of this County, to the following effect: "You shall well and truly, to the best of your ability, keep this jury, and neither speak to them yourself, nor suffer any other person to speak to them touching any matter relative to this trial until they returned into Court to-morrow morning at ten o'clock." And the said Amos J. Jumper is remanded to jail.
