

death, and as the receipts were small, the bonds have allowed bond. He also admits the fact to state, that the reason why this statement has been procrastinated, was, that there was doubt as to the distribution of the balance due the estate, and Council was consulted of different opinions given for a considerable time, and that in addition to this he states that he has made considerable advancements to most of the distributees and that very little is due to many of them, and if this fact should be made appear, as he contends it can, he contends that he should be allowed the bond on the sales of the lands and negroes, which the Com has not allowed in this statement. If the Court should however allow the same, these commissions which would amount to $172.26 the balance of principal then due the estate would be of $2737.26 with the same amount of interest as above stated.
